Garrett Oil Tools, Inc., Formally
Opened; Tours Planned From 2-6 P. M.

Hundreds of Northeast Texans and visitors from out of state toured the new Garrett Oil Tools plant in west Harrison County following the plant's formal opening at noon Friday. The plant is a division of U. S. Industries, Inc. and is located a mile east of the Longview city limits on Highway 80. A special open house to show off the ultra modern facility will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday featuring conducted tours through the spacious plant. The public is invited.

Garrett Oil Tools, Inc., is a leading producer of gas lift valves and other oil field equipment and is well known by its brand name, "get". The plant site is a 40-acre tract of land on which a group of buildings totaling 80,000 square feet have been built. Allowances have been made for possible expansion of some 40,000 square feet. Top executives from the parent company of New York were on hand for the ceremony. Included in the list of dignitaries were John J. Snyder Jr., board chairman and president of U. S. Industries, Inc., and other board members, H. U. Garrett, founder and president of Garrett Oil Tools, and Taylor Milton, Garrett executive vice president, also participated. Guests included prominent civic, religious, business and newspaper representatives. The $1 million plus plant is already in production.

Several Hundred Lions Receive Texas Welcome

Several hundred persons received a real Texas Welcome at the Lions Hospitality Booth, set up to greet delegates, enroute to the Lions International Convention in San Francisco. The booth was operated at the Riverside Park near the intersection of the Scottville Rd. and U. S. Highway 80, Wednesday-Friday. Johnny Schonhardt reported that not as many cars stopped as anticipated, but that "several hundred persons" were welcomed to Marshall. They were given cold drinks and coffee. Texas in a pin badge and white cowboy hats, and decals. Caddo Lake magnets, and other items. On hand to welcome them were members of the Marshall Lions Club, the Mar-Tex Evening Lions Club and their wives, the Lady Lions, and Lionettes, decked out in white shorts and boues, white bolos and white cowboy hats. Mr. Schonhardt said that he would like to express his appreciation to all those who helped make the hospitality booth a success.

Humphrey Due Back Tuesday DWI Case Sets Court Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Frank (D-Ohio) and other Democrats get another crack at Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey next Tuesday as the question of what or what is to blame for inflationary trends in the nation's economy. Humphrey has promised the Senate Finance Committee to bring in a full list of materials he says are in short supply. That point was to convert most of the federal debt from short-term borrowings into long-term securities. A giant elm sometimes grows to six feet in height and weighs 600 pounds.

MONSTER SNAKE ONCE HERE! Ex-Marshallite Recalls Seeing Reptile, 18 Feet Long, When a Boy

Marshall was apparently once the home of a monster snake between 16 and 18 feet long with a head the size of a man's two fists, and D. E. Conery of Clarksville recalls seeing it when a boy here. Mr. Conery wrote that he saw the snake about June, 1912, or possibly 1913, when he was only 9 or 10 years old. The blue-black reptile was coiled about a small island with a clump of willows on it in a creek near the old W & JT Railway spur tracks close to the present site of Marshall Manufacturing Co. The snake's body was as big around as a man's upper thigh. Mr. Conery says and it made two and two-thirds loops around the small willow clump. Since a man could hardly reach around the clump, he said, the snake must have approached 18 feet in length. Mr. Conery recalled that he was walking from the home of his grandmother, Mrs. M. J. Conery, who lived in a two-story house behind the Marshall Post Office on a side now occupied by a service station. He went next to what must have been Alamo Blvd. and turned south to E. Border. Border St. then had a plank walk possibly 400 feet long extending south to the railway tracks, Mr. Conery said. "I was walking down the plank walk barefooted and came to a familiar small branch that snaked under the plank walk," Mr. Conery stated. "This branch came out of a swamp lying between the street and railway tracks." "As small, I glanced down into this branch," he said, "and saw the large snake. Slipping precariously, I watched it and tried to make a mental picture of what I saw and I would always remember it."

COLD, BLACK EYES
"This snake had black eyes that never blinked," he continued. "It ran its tongue out frequently. Its head was resting on part of its body. It never moved its head, but it pulled part of its body forward or lightened its body once I passed away then."

Mr. Conery said he ran to some nearby Negro homes, but got little response. When he finally got a young Negro with a shotgun to return with him, the snake had disappeared.

His family, relatives and friends discredited the story as a boy's imagination, Mr. Conery said. He insists, however, that he was "past the snake hunting age and was a pretty tough little nut about then."

NOT NATIVE TYPE
"I know the snake was not a native snake as I had seen pictures of large snakes in Teddy Roosevelt's book on hunting big game in Africa," Mr. Conery said. "I also formed the opinion that it was not a poisonous but a constricting type—one that killed by squeezing."

He recalls that carnival used to put on shows just off the intersection of S. Adams and E. House and believes that the snake escaped from a show.

He said he did not know if the snake escaped when young or grew to its huge size in the swamp or if it escaped full-grown. If it escaped whole large, he wondered, why was no one and cry raised? The snake seemed in perfect health, Mr. Conery said, eyes bright and body well filled-out.

FAMILY MOVED
Mr. Conery's family moved to Knoxville, where his father had a job with the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexican Railway, not long after he saw the snake. Mr. Conery, who had been born in Marshall in 1903, now lives in Clarksville, where he is a distributor for Dixie Oil.

After 45 years, what Mr. Conery wants to know is this: "What ever happened to the monster snake?"

"Did it escape in the size I saw it?" he asks. "Did it follow the branch into a large body of water? or live on where it was? Did anybody else hear reports of or see an extra-large snake in the area?"

Demand for $20,000 Is Related At San Angelo Bomb Death Trial

DALLAS, June 22 (AP)—Harris County District Court Judge J. Lee Weaver told his daughter, to school in Houston, hundreds of miles south of San Angelo, where the bomb went off Jan. 16, 1955. The trial started last night after almost a week of jury sequestration.

Tom Green County Commissioner Hulton Butler said he heard the explosion and saw parts of the car lying in the air.

Ike Complains Of Golf Game

GETTYSBURG, Pa., June 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower played 18 holes of golf today. He did some complaining about his own game and jabbed an opponent having trouble.

The President toured the Gettysburg Country Club course under a hot sun. The temperature was in the high 70s when he started and around 90 degrees at the end. Eisenhower played with two neighbors, retired Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Novins and George E. Allen, Washington businessman.

Eisenhower first ribbed Allen about his game and then took some verbal pot shots at his own. Allen's drive off the first tee skimmed close to the ground and didn't travel very far.

Chubling, the President remarked: "He had a dream last night. He dreamed he shot a 7." The President and Mrs. Eisenhower came to their farm yesterday and plan to return to Washington tomorrow.

Dr. Sibley in St. Louis For Special Study

Dr. L. C. Sibley has made plans for a week's post graduate study at St. Louis School of Dentistry in St. Louis, Mo. The study, he said, is to include various items, conservative and progressive, incident to the practice of endodontics.

The class is limited to 10 students, each of which must have had a previous post graduate course in Endodontics, and membership in the American Association of Endodontists is a prerequisite to acceptance.

Dr. Sibley's previous medical training was taken at the University of Alabama. He had been a member of the American Association of Endodontists in 1955, but he was not a member in 1956, he said.

The articles were the accumulation of a year of the local students' departments of the two schools. Miss Emma Mae Bostie, principal at Junior High, and John Beck, principal at Senior High, said.

Things of little value falling into the hands of the "treasure hunters" were thrown away, and recovered items, but a few valuable items are still on hand.

Among the most valuable articles on hand are prescription glasses—five pairs of them. Any pair would be worth as much as $15 to $20, Beck said, but they have never been identified. They may have been lost over a year ago, he said, and articles that may be worth are more than a few.

At both schools, however, by far the greatest bulk of lost items are such things as cheap fountain pens, costume jewelry, especially earrings, and scarves, for principal said.

Mr. Beck said a great many tennis shoes—generally well-worn—were found on the high school campus.

I have tried to make myself believe the young man carried a new pair," he said, and this was his way of getting them.

Last items are kept in a drawer in both principals' offices, and students are free to ask for them. At Junior High, regular reminders are given during the homeroom periods, that lost items are on hand unclaimed, and students respond well to these reminders, Miss Bostie said.

At the end of the year, wearable clothing is given to needy families, the Red Cross or the Empty Stocking Fund, the principals said.

Both Miss Bostie and Mr. Beck commented on the frequency with which students turn in lost items and pursue with money in hand, indicating a high degree of honesty among the youngsters.

Almost all billboards and signs have some identification in them, they said, and can usually be returned promptly.

Neither principal could recall any particular item that excited their interest because of its oddity.

"Maybe I've become hard to surprise," Miss Bostie laughed. "We've had practically everything that youngsters ever bring to school."

Texas Traffic Deaths Decline

AUSTIN, June 22 (AP)—The Department of Public Safety said today the 1957 traffic death toll is running 2 per cent below last year, although 25 more persons were killed in May than in 1956.

A total of 12,427 accidents during May—compared to 12,992 last year—was probably the big reason for last month's increase.

Five to See New GE Models

Five Marshallites are planning to attend a dealer showing of the 1958 General Electric television receivers in Shreveport Friday at the General Electric Auditorium, 1400 Dairfield St.

Del Howard and Jack Cornelius will represent Household Supply Co., 205 W. Houston.

Three members of Logan and Whaley's staff will attend. They are Tommy Whaley, Fred Weems, and W. O. Hill Jr.

The new television models have the most drastic design changes in the company's history.

They employ a 110-degree deflection picture tube which permits designers to pare down the depth of the sets to 15 inches in the 24-inch size. Last year, 24-inch consoles were 30 inches, front to back.

Some sets are equipped with automatic electronic tuning, some with remote control tuning, and multiple speakers. Some table models feature front speaker placement.

The man agreed that if your car suffers from vapor locks, you should be able to have your fuel system checked. Worn fittings, kinks and cracks in the fuel line, the fuel pump, lines and outlets may be causing the vapor lock.

FASTEST SKATER BACK FOR VISIT

Joe P. Doyle, Retired T&P Fireman Famed For Speed in Years Gone By, at Vets Meet

The fastest roller skater in all these parts will be a center of attraction at the annual meeting of the Texas & Pacific Railway Veterans Association.

The one-time Marshall skater, whose matches with challenges brought crowds from miles around to Joe P. Doyle, a retired T&P fireman.

As a conversation piece in renewing acquaintances Friday, Mr. Doyle brought with him a 50-year-old Marshall Messenger advertisement and a handbill announcing roller skating races in which he was listed as the champion.

"I know everybody in Marshall at these days," Mr. Doyle explained. "One of the advertisements loudly proclaimed that on the night of Jan. 27, 1907, at the Tabernacle Roller Rink, the first of a series of one-mile races would be held. The old Tabernacle rink stood on the corner of Gray and Washington streets, the present site of Sears, Roebuck & Co."

Two Accidents Investigated

Marshall police investigated two automobile accidents here Sunday. No one was injured in either.

A 1935 Ford, owned by Bobby H. Davis, 1908 Johnson, and Ernest T. Fagan, 3002 Del Al, collided at the intersection of S. Washington and University. Police estimated damage to the automobile at about $175 each.

Five minutes later, officers were summoned to W. Zimery near the Roubidoux Springs Road, where a gasoline truck had gone out of control and overturned.

A fire unit was also dispatched, but no fire occurred.

The truck was driven by James M. Rodgers, a Negro service station attendant who lives at 1610 Carter Ferry Rd.

Damage to the gasoline truck was set at about $1,000.

Money Quiz Is Called War Dance

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) said today the Senate Finance Committee's "penetrating investigation" of the money market appears to be a "war dance" and "a preview of the Treasury Department's attack on the Treasury Department."

Flanders told a reporter, "I think no real fight has been waged on our subject to date."

"But I think we can get down to some pertinent questions when the war dance ceases."

The New Englander named no names, but so far all the questions directed at Humphrey have come from the Democratic side.

When the committee reconvened yesterday after its first week of hearings, only two of its 15 members had had a chance to pose questions.

men today after the committee hearing she could not say what annual had been received for the purpose, but could remember one $50 check.

"MISTAKEN IMPRESSION"

Both the parents and the medical committee praised the work of Dr. Kitz, but the committee said, in a statement:

"Dr. Joseph H. Kitz determined the amount of his charge while he was under the mistaken impression that a considerable sum of money earmarked for medical purposes had been received by the Hooper family."

Benny's parents have said the total of all contributions reaching them so far is less than $400, aside from a $1,000 television check earmarked for Benny's education in later years and another $1,000 TV check which was turned over to the Mansville Fire Department.

Hooper, a 50-a-week telephone operator, said they have lost a great amount in wages while recovering from the rescue ordeal.

All future offers of aid will be rejected by the parents, who said they will recuperate that "persons so inclined give their money to the noble foundation or other medical charities."

Hooper, 60, on a bed at one point, "she haven't seen today's mail so we don't know if these sent any more money."

His wife quickly interposed: "Some call them jerks, honey, but they're all very kind people."

RIGHTS

even though the struggle for the right-to-vote bill will be long.

The legislation is designed to protect voting and other civil rights, primarily through empowering the attorney general to seek Federal Court injunctions against violations.

Defendants in contempt cases growing out of injunctions obtained by the government would not be entitled to a jury trial—a point of major controversy over the measure.

Southern opponents contend the bill is far more than a "right-to-vote" bill, that it can and would be used in an effort to force racial integration of Southern schools.

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) called tonight for prompt passage of the Bricker Amendment, to "forestall another Girard case."

Ellender said that if the amendment had been in effect when the case of Army Specialist William E. Girard broke, "I do not think there would have been an international hue over it."

He spoke of the controversial constitutional amendment by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) designed to curb the treaty-making power. Ellender said it would make sure "no treaty or international agreement can be used to strip our citizens of any rights guaranteed them by the Constitution."

Ellender appended an injunction in Washington by Federal District Judge Joseph C. McGowan, forbidding military authorities from turning Girard over to Japanese authorities for trial on a charge of fatally shooting a Japanese woman.

The member said that if the Supreme Court fails to uphold the ruling Congress should see that "actions of forces and military personnel are promptly punished."

Church Merger Fought
NEW YORK (AP)—Efforts to merge the 1,000-member Central Methodist Church and the 1,000-member Evangelical Church are being fought in Federal Court here.

Graham Recites Girl's Troubles

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—"I know of one girl who accepted Christ here and went back and told the people in her office about it," said Billy Graham tonight.

"They laughed at her and she just smiled back and loved them," he said.

"But two weeks later she was back in here with two other people from that same office—and they made decisions for Christ. I expect maybe the whole office will be in here before long."

Graham said the previous television appearances have brought a huge response—"thousands on thousands of letters." Many of them told of personal conversions made through the broadcasts.

He announced that the television series, which was originally limited to four nights, has been extended to include next Saturday night, June 23, and might possibly be extended even further.

"We haven't got the money but we're doing it on faith," he said. "Four hundred and thirteen persons came forward tonight to accept their acceptance of Christ."

The New York crusade began on May 15, "decisions for Christ" have totaled 21,000.

Graham told the story of the office girl's troubles with leaving coworkers to illustrate his theme of the night—that the "narrow way" is the way to salvation, but it isn't always easy.

The evangelist announced tonight that the closing date for his New York crusade has been changed by one day. The closing meeting will be Saturday, July 20, at Yankee Stadium, instead of on July 21 as previously announced.

The final service in the Garden will be Friday, July 19.

Two Held In Robbery Of Singer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police of three states today hunted two men following the arrest of two others and recovery of all but $1,000 worth of $89,700 in furs and jewels stolen from singer Laurie Melchior and his wife.

Booked on suspicion of robbery, police announced yesterday, were Robert Morgan, 39, an ex-convict, and Alfred J. Pope, 28, both of Los Angeles. Deputy Chief Thad Brown said two blue leatherette suitcases containing $89,700 worth of the loot were recovered.

The suitcases were stolen by three gunmen who invaded the Hollywood Hills home of the singer and his wife Kathleen Tuesday night. Brown said. The fourth man was believed waiting in the getaway car.

Boy Requests Spanking Ban

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP)—A 10-year-old boy walked into attorney Ben F. Williams' office yesterday and asked for an injunction. The lad, a newspaper carrier, said he would pay the fees in free labor.

The lad spilled out this tale: His father had caught him smoking and he feared trouble at home. He wanted an injunction against a spanking.

Williams told his prospective client that it would "be unethical to effect an injunction on your punishment." He turned down the case.

The Sergeant, which like the Corporal, can mount an atomic warhead, is understood to be designed for a range of up to about 100 miles as against a range of about half that for the Corporal. On the other hand, the Jupiter is intended to reach out to 1,000 miles, traveling over a trajectory or route which ascends between 100 and 200 miles.

Beautiful Marshall

Even at the height of the June sun, Marshall's lawns are still lavishly colored with long blooming varieties of flowers and shrubs. Seen below in the foreground are the hardy hypericum day lilies which give bloom through most of the summer. When other flowers begin to fade out. In the background is another species of lily, the Moroccan Red. The althea shrub, commonly known as the Rose of Sharon and easily adapted to this area, is seen abundantly in and around Marshall. It has a nice neat habit of growth with very dense, with its beautiful bloom, and advantages as a subject for bordering, are all particularly popular in Marshall gardens. The delicate looking, but really and fast-growing mimosa is a delight on any lawn and grows many throughout our city.

Longer Seed-Blossom Life

By BEN ARTHUR DAVIS

The length of the life of a flower seed varies greatly depending on the species or variety, reports an experiment station. A few kinds of flowers may live for five to ten years, while others the larger or biennial are good for only one season. The first insurance to a flower seed is to store it in a cool, dry place. The seed must be kept in a cool, dry place for several months before planting and then, if possible, in the refrigerator. It is necessary to plant seeds immediately after the harvest or they will be destroyed by the high humidity.

Flower seeds shipped from this country to the tropics are usually sealed in tin cans or other airtight containers; they are perfectly safe as long as sealed, but when the container is opened the seeds must be planted at once. Even a few days in the open air will ruin seeds of some species of flowers.

One of the nationally known research bureaus has listed a number of plants to be considered in buying lawn seeds. Seven important conditions may be asked: 1. How much area does it feed? 2. Is it a cool-season or warm-season grass? 3. Is it a lawn or turf? 4. Does it do well at all seasons? 5. Does it have any annoying odor? 6. Is it easy to handle, light weight and not filled with sand or similar fillers? 7. Has it been thoroughly tested by a name you know?

A siphon sprayer takes the plant food right down to the roots of the grass where it can be utilized at once, but spraying a feeder is not as good as watering. One test shows that to treat 300 square feet of lawn area only 34 minutes are required when a siphon sprayer is used, while more than two hours are necessary when other siphon or pressure sprayers are employed.

In applying a lawn food it is well to note carefully the difference between the "fertilizing" or "dressing" foods feeding once each year may be sufficient, while with the other types several dressings may be necessary.

This seems to be a great year for ants. I hear not only of numerous invasions of the familiar Argentine ant, but more of the domestic fire ant—both hills are being found all about. The imported fire ant, fans bedecked with pink rose-is causing great concern among the farmers all through the Deep South. On a recent visit to my farm in Wayne County, Mississippi, I could stand in one place and count more than a dozen of the huge mounds of the imported fire ant.

On the better grounds all types of ants may be kept in check by using chlordane or dieldrin. A little time and two or three applications may be necessary for complete eradication. The domestic fire ant can become a great nuisance, especially where small children play. When present it is not fun to run from being stung, and they certainly will sting if given a chance.

Most flowers, and especially the annuals, will bloom longer and more profusely if the old blossoms are removed to prevent them from forming seed. Florida roses will give much more and better bloom if the heads of flowers are removed as soon as they fade.

When pruning is mentioned, usually think of trees and shrubs, but there are some annual flowers that respond well to this treatment. When the stems begin to get lanky and bloom down, try cutting them back severely, watering and feeding. Before long the fresh new growth and abundance of flowers will give the appearance of vigorous young plants. Arenal plant may easily be encouraged to give a good second crop of flowers by removing the old flower heads and giving the plants a little food and water.

I am delighted with the new dwarf sandal. It never grows more than 10 to 12 inches high and maintains a good coverage of foliage all through the year. While it bears no fruit, it is an excellent evergreen where a very low-growing plant is needed. My plants are supposed to be ten years old and are less than a foot in height. Planting new growth and abundance of flowers will give the appearance of new and better dwarf shrubs and evergreens. We need more of this material. A fast-growing plant that attains a height of six to ten feet has no place about the base of one of the new low-lying bushes—and most of the new bushes are definitely low-lying.

Mrs. Alton Summers and daughter, Dolores, of 3701 Bridge Path, have just returned from an eight-day vacation through New Mexico and Colorado.

They made the trip with Mrs. Summers' brother, Arthur Williams, teacher in the Longview schools, who entered the University of Colorado at Boulder for the summer semester. Their travels took them to Pike's Peak, Seven Falls, Estes Park, Buffalo Bill Museum, Central City Opera House, the Lost Gold Mine, Mount Evans, Echo Lake and points in and around Denver. In Colorado, snow fell twice during their visit. This caused great excitement in Dolores' young life, as that was only the second time in her ten years to see snow.

They returned from Denver by air, and both mother and daughter say they will never travel any other way again.

Car Dismantled By Actor's Son

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Warren Anderson returned home from a San Francisco location of his "Caddy" "news" show to find that his 1957 Ford had been completely dismantled by his son, Warren Jr.

"My workshop and garage was just one big mess of bolts and nuts," said Anderson. "I tried not to panic but I almost did."

The boy, a mechanical tinkerer, then showed his father that the car was in a state of complete disrepair. Anderson and the boy are now reassembling the car despite the difference in whole or piece value.

Summer Is 'AG' Students' Work Time

By JANIE HARRIS
Summer is upon us. However, the vacation part which is so often linked with summer is not so true. Sure, we are out of school, but there is still work to be done especially on a farm. If you do not believe me, take a look at the pictures right in front of your eyes.

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE
The work these future farmers of America are doing is not just something they accidentally picked up. They have applied themselves well in their "ag" course at school, along with a great many other boys.

Marshall High School offers a three-year course in Vocational Agriculture. During the school year these boys study diseases and diseases of livestock, feeding of livestock, developing and maintaining pastures, how to manage the farm timberland, cultivation and harvesting of crops grown in this area, planning, simple tractor maintenance and operation, selecting breeds and raising of broilers and turkeys, and raising of broilers along with many other worthwhile and practical jobs.

The boys practice their knowledge at the school farm and carry on with each activity on a small scale at their home farms. During the summer months they work on a much larger scale because of the extra time they have. If they do not have a farm or land, they get summer jobs helping other farmers, thus putting knowledge and skill to work.

DAY OF WORK AND PLANNING
One day this summer, the officers of the Future Farmers of America along with their "AG" teacher, Mr. T. Trudwell, participated in a day of work and planning at the school farm.

Their morning was spent burning brush, "brush hogging" about five acres, and cutting larger brush with axes.

Then lunch, then barbequed chicken, and then the boys spent considerable time developing plans for next year's school. The remainder of the afternoon was spent splitting cordwood to be used to replace cordwood at the school farm.

LONG STAR FARMER DEGREE AWARDED

One of the "Future Farmers of America" boys, Earl Scott, has had his application for the Long Star Farmers Degree approved by the state committee. Only two per cent of the Future Farmers of any state may receive this degree. It is awarded on the basis of a supervised farming program, scholarship, leadership, citizenship, and investment in farming. Sidney will be awarded the degree during the 27th Annual State FFA convention to be held in Dallas, Texas.

General Store' Still Practical But Curious

By DOTTIE SMITH
In the days of old when new stores were being built all over the country, the farm store was a very important establishment. It was the place where the farmer, rancher, banker and owner of the store could find everything they needed for their daily needs.

These stores were of great importance to the community and to the development of the nation because they alone had for the people the many supplies necessary for life. They were the place where the farmer and rancher could find everything they needed for their daily needs.

STOCK INVESTMENT OF $50 NETS $2 MILLION

SANTA ANA, Calif., June 22.—A $50 trust fund grew into a $2,000,000 fortune for the late Mrs. Simon, as revealed by a court accounting for the fund.

Back in 1906 Simon's father, Henry Simon, head of the Hunt Foods Co. of Fullerton, Calif., bought his four-month-old son $50 shares of stock in the Arlington Canning Co., which he had just taken over.

The company merged with Hunt Foods Co. in 1943. The stock was then worth $207.78. On July 23, 1943, young Simon's uncle, Harold Brooks, a Los Angeles food broker, took over the administration of the fortune until it was turned over to Simon this week.

The final accounting showed that the five shares of stock is now 168,351 shares of Hunt Foods, Inc., having a book value of $800,000 and a market value of $2,000,000.

New Laws Affect Teenage Drivers

Teenage drivers in Harrison County and all over the state will be required to wear seat belts after Aug. 22, according to Highway Patrolmen Charles Harrison and C. D. Bledsoe.

On that date, the officers said, a new law passed by the 54th Legislature to curb delinquency will go into effect. The law also makes parents liable to punishment for certain violations by their children.

Teenagers 14 and up may be fined up to $100 for speeding, but not for driving without a license, the patrolmen said. The bill specifically states that a minor may not be imprisoned for failure to wear a seat belt, but may be removed until the fine is paid.

HARDER TO OBTAIN

Getting a license for youths under 18 will be harder, too, officers said. Harrison and Taylor said no longer will be issuing such licenses to minors.

Parents will have to fill out a rather involved questionnaire, the officers said, to get special permission for the 14 to 16-year-olds to drive. Final approval will be made at Department of Public Safety headquarters in Austin.

A minor's parents are made liable under one of the new laws for up to $300 in property damage caused by a teenage driver, the patrolmen said. The theory behind the law, they explained, is that parents can stop driving delinquency in the home and will do so if they have to pay for it in cash.

Another of the 90-day bills make it a misdemeanor to drive through a "yield right of way" sign, after Aug. 22 the violator will be as guilty as if he had run a red light or stop sign, the officers said.

Previously, they had been required to get a regular operator's license. Appropriations bills concerned with highway safety allowed funds for 100 new highway patrolmen for 1950, the officers noted. Also, the Department of Public Safety was given 40 more drivers license examiners to handle the many applicants who often wait hours to take the test.

Oil Production To Be Dropped

Texas Crude Oil Quotas Slashed To Levels of Before Suez Crisis

By MAX R. SKEELTON

HOUSTON, June 22.—Crude oil production in the United States by the Suez crisis eight months ago have been wiped out.

A sharp cut in Texas allowable for July will place domestic production below the early November level when the Suez Canal was blocked.

It took only three months to wipe out the increases developed over a five-month period.

Domestic production averaged 600,000 barrels the week ending Nov. 2 and reached a record average of 7,818,000 a day the week ending March 27.

Last week's daily average was 7,254,000, including 3,102,500 barrels a day in Texas.

The Railroad Commission ordered a 13-day production schedule for July, slashing the daily average by 300,449 barrels. This cutback, combined with the Suez crisis, means July production will be nearly a million barrels below the record level attained in late March.

While the Middle East emergency caused sharp fluctuations in domestic crude production, the weekly average for imports of foreign crude and oil products has remained relatively stable.

Imports for the four weeks ending Nov. 2 averaged 1,442,900 barrels a day. The average declined quickly to 1,317,600 by the end of November but dropped below the 1,000,000 mark for only four of the 13 succeeding weeks.

A daily average of 1,400,000 barrels for the four weeks ending June 7 was the highest since early October.

The Texas cutback order came two days after the Independent Petroleum Association of America predicted that demand for domestic crude for July, August and September will drop about 400,000 barrels a day. Third quarter demand was estimated at 6,250,000 barrels daily compared to the 6,500,000 barrels daily of the first quarter. The production level of about 7,250,000 barrels.

Gauge Taken On Draper Well

The southwest end of the Woodlawn field in Harrison County received a half-mile north-south spread Saturday with gauging of the Lyons and Logan of Shreveport No. 3 Draper, Cavill survey from 6,800 feet.

The well was rated at 5,500,000 feet of gas daily on a three-eight inch choke with 2,000 pounds pressure. Pay is from the Pettit zone with casing perforated at 6,547 feet; at 6,554 feet and at 6,646 feet.

Operator used 10,000 gallons of acid for the completion try.

The No. 3 Draper is one-fourth mile north of the No. 1 Draper, called a dry hole to 6,800 feet. That well was a one-fourth mile northwest outcrop.

The company now is arranging to stake another test on the unit but footage was not available Saturday. Work likely will start this week.

North Lansing Well Records Show on Test

Sinclair Oil and Gas Co., No. 1 Becht, Bechtman Parker survey, a northeast and well in the North Lansing field in Northwest Harrison County, was cased Saturday below 7,500 feet.

The well showed far gas pay possibilities on a drillstem test presumably in the Travis Peak at 7,492-200 feet. Operator used one-fourth top and three-eighth bottom chokes and tool was operated for 10 minutes. Recovery was a 1000-foot gas-cut water cushion, and 10 feet of gas cut mud. Bottomhole showed in pressure registered 1,925 pounds with bottomhole flowing pressure at 475 pounds.

The well is located four miles southwest of Harrison.

On the east end of the field, another well was reported "testing" although no information was available. It is the R. P. Karl No. 1 Spencer, G. L. Killa survey with depth 7,500 feet. Field reports state that pay promise has been noted in both the Pettit and the Travis Peak sections. The test was drilled on a block taken for a 30-day period.

Farm Tools To Be Shown

A three-man team from Dallas will demonstrate Case Farm Implement Co. of Marshall, C. L. English, owner, and E. D. Bud' Eden, manager, said Saturday.

The demonstration will take place at 1206 East 8th Blvd., and the machines will be put through their paces under field operating conditions. Refreshments will be served.

Featured in the "Casomarm Starlight Review" will be the Case 300 tractor, which has an exclusive 15-speed transmission and power-adjusted wheels. Other equipment will include a heavy-duty plow harrow, a hay baler and a hammermill feed grinder.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS FOR ADULTS

Idea Is Ruled Out Salk Shots Just for the Kids

The idea that Salk polio vaccine inoculations are "old stuff" is being combatted through the Harrison County Medical Society with special programs whereby adults have received the vaccine.

Under the medical society's program adults in any civic, social or church group may be vaccinated as a group with all funds going to the equipment fund at Kalm Memorial Hospital.

"This shows the emphasis that is being placed on the adult vaccinations in Harrison County for people of all ages," a member of the group pointed out.

A recent report in the Medical News, pointed out that polio could be virtually eliminated in the United States with the vaccination of every person between the age of two months and 40 years of age.

The 40-year-old line does not mean that the vaccinations are not helpful to persons older than that but that the ratio of attacks drops between 30 and 40 years of age.

Dr. James Salk, inventor of the vaccine, told presidents and secretaries of all state medical groups from the 49 states, Alaska, Hawaii and the District of Columbia recently that "there need by little, if any, paralytic poliomyelitis in the United States within a year if all who are potentially susceptible are treated with the vaccine that is now available."

Dr. Salk has estimated that if every person under 30 received the vaccine that polio would be cut by 90 per cent and that the other 10 per cent could be eliminated by vaccination of persons over 30.

The program of vaccinations carried out by the Harrison County Medical Society emphasizes the fact that members of the group feel that age is no barrier to polio and that the vaccine is important in all age groups.

Airline Talks Nearing Finish

DALLAS, June 27 (AP)—Airlines opposing a Dallas bid for expanded service to the West Coast are expected to conclude arguments at a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing Monday or Tuesday.

The case involves eight companies and American Airlines completed testimony yesterday before CAB examiner Thomas Wrenn.

American's director of route development and research, Robert Kemble, opposed the Dallas move for competitive service, contending there is no need for another carrier to Los Angeles. His firm is the only one now flying Dallas-West Coast schedules.

Troops Abroad Get Along Well

U. S. Forces in Europe Today Enjoy Good Terms With Civilian Neighbors

By THOMAS R. WARING
Written For The AP

American troops in Europe now enjoy good relations with civilian neighbors. This was not altogether true last year.

Many times I heard these statements during a seven-week tour of Army camps and Air Force bases in France, Germany and England. While military authorities dislike to reveal exact figures on troop strength, I estimate there must be nearly 350,000 military people and 175,000 wives and children in the European theater. The bulk of them are in the three countries listed.

AIRMEN IN SPAIN

In Spain, the fourth country I visited, there are scarcely 2,000 airmen and almost no other U.S. military forces at present. When the three big air bases and their satellites are completed within a few months, troops will pour in to man them. Authorities are preparing to see that community relations stay good. They intend to profit by mistakes elsewhere in cultivating good will in Spain.

A series of crimes, as well as a variety of other tensions, hurt reputations of Americans in the armed forces. A few caused trouble for the great majority of decent, orderly young men. These men have no control over some of the conditions that cause civilian complaints, such as noisy jet airplanes and scarcity of modern housing.

FUROR LESSENED

Much of the furor over crimes last summer had died down by the time I arrived this spring. U.S. military and diplomatic officials are striving harder than ever to hold down incidents in the future. They work in friendly cooperation with local authorities.

An elaborate public relations program, long carried on piecemeal in the field but now better coordinated, has begun to pay off. That is the opinion of scores of U.S. and foreign spokesmen whom I interviewed.

TROOPS BRIEFED

Commanders are bearing down hard to make their men behave while off duty. Before troops leave the United States, they receive briefings on their new stations and hints about customs of the country. Training in how to get along with foreign populations continues overseas. Indeed, it never stops.

For most servicemen, this is the first trip abroad. For a great many, enlistment brought the first absence from home. Actually these are mostly teen-agers, or men barely out of their teens. They come from the same age group that sometimes turns out juvenile delinquents at home.

United Gas Earnings Up

Net earnings of United Gas Corp. for the first month of 1957 rose to an estimated $16,943,000 or $1.31 a share, from $14,749,000 or $1.14 a share in the same period of 1956. N. C. McGowan, Shreveport, president and chairman, said Saturday.

Mr. McGowan said operating revenues for the period totaled $16,943,000, up from $15,719,000 a year ago. The gain came from increased volume and prices of gas, crude oil and gasoline sold, and from increased tonnage sales of oilfield and petrole-
